"We Talk: Now Fight."

DENVER, August 17.—Following is a condensed report of the News special from Glenwood Springs. The Indians have taken the initiative and will force the fighting. "White man go back; we want no talk; we fight." This is what an Indian runner who went to Meeker to manage for a peace conference told two white men who were sent to guide him to his companions, camped a few miles from Meeker. The Indian then turned on Patty Randall, one of the white men, and drawing a knife plunged it into his side, cutting a deep gash on his arm and warning him to go back. Randall smashed him by striking him over the head with a clubbed gun. As he did so a war whoop sounded through the clearing, and on a bluff that overlooks Coal Creek, three miles from Meeker, where the meeting occurred, there appeared at least a [illegible] of Indians in war paint and feathers. They sounded the battle cry of their tribe by [illegible] a volley of bullets in the direction of Randall and companions, who quickly ducked back to the cabin, while the Indians shouted back this warning: "No talk! Fight!"

[illegible] Monday morning, [illegible] half an hour's journey to Meeker. Nothing was seen of the Indians from Gunnison [illegible], when Colorow met the mayor of Meeker and Nat Major, the [illegible] sheriff [illegible] ing, when these bucks and a squaw came to town and asked for a conference with the mayor and Commissioner Gregory, Trader Major acting as interpreter. Word had been sent by Colorow and asked for three days' [illegible] to get [illegible] back to the reservation. The Indians said that Colorow did not want to fight but that the white men had forced it. The Indians and squaw left town and went up Coal creek, where they were left. As they were going the Indians told the interpreter to go back "White man go back. Indian fight. White man killed Indian." Major left them and returned to town. While he was gone the buck who remained behind [illegible] the Indian [illegible] to act as interpreter. Patty Randall and George Witter agreed to carry him to the rendezvous of the Utes on Coal creek. They took him in good faith and were [illegible] and warned not to [illegible]. A run by [illegible] got the information to [illegible] and a party of forty was organized and went to the [illegible], but the Indians were not to be seen. Randall's injuries are not serious.

This settles the matter in the minds of all settlers of Meeker as to the attitude of the Utes. They have broken the treaty within two weeks and have shown that they want to fight. They will be accommodated, and a courier goes out to Glenwood Springs to-night that troops be hurried forward as soon as possible. The killing of the Indian [illegible] the signing of a treaty of peace brought a feeling of partial security, but the violation of it which is now believed to have been a scheme to enable the Indians to learn the situation at Meeker, has caused the greatest excitement and the people are beginning to believe the Utes mean business. All they want to do before beginning work is to get their women and herds out of the way. The pursuit of the sheriff prevented them from doing it before, and now that they have no opposition outside of the towns they will send their squaws and children away and open the fight. The intense excitement prevails here at this time and every rumor brings additional tidings of the purpose of the Indians. Couriers have been sent towards Axial to warn Senator Eddy, who went back to his ranch on Sunday, and also other Bear river settlers. The situation is indeed alarming, and while there are no important incidents to chronicle but what I have already forwarded, the most sensational reports are current.

DENVER, August 17.—Special to the Times from Glenwood Springs August 17th. Special by Times' correspondent by special courier from Kendall's camp at the head of Milk creek August 15th, 10:30 p. m. The Times courier (Cockrell), accompanied by a guide, after one hundred and twenty miles of continuous riding, arrived in Kendall's camp at 6:30 this evening. The party was found in camp on the slope of a mountain looking to the north, which was well connoitered as was also a vigilant lookout on a commanding point overlooking the entire situation, who discovered the Times party approaching and [illegible] known the location of the camp. What is left of the party is coming toward Meeker in a wagon and sick and broken-hearted [illegible] great with continuous [illegible]. There are but fourteen of the party left with the sheriff, [illegible] of the others having been detained by [illegible] the Utes. [illegible] Phillips, one of the most daring and intrepid riders in the country. Despite the [illegible] which accompanied [illegible] the little band as the Utes [illegible] approached [illegible] on account of pride, hence days on short rations in rough [illegible] they gathered [illegible] and shook the dust off their feet.

[illegible] days hence [illegible] looking [illegible] of determination. He is about six feet two in his stockings, very [illegible] eyes. He is quite complexioned, wearing a brown mustache, and when talking seems and dangerous state [illegible] mouth. After the greetings were over and various inquiries exchanged, your correspondent was invited to join in the repast which had been prepared by one of the party. Interviewing the arrival in camp [illegible] the tired and worn out newspaper men, there was a veil of hopes in the sheriff's views as he half apologized for the absence of everything edible but coffee without saccharine or [illegible] condiments and broiled elk steak. They looked tired and nearly worn out with hard riding, want of sleep, lack of nourishment and the [illegible] strain of nerve. For eight days they have been in the saddle, and bitterly bewail the downfall in ambition in not being able to capture the two Indian outlaws. For three consecutive days the party of fifty-six which originally started out were [illegible] excepting straight meat, there being plenty of game in the country. Settlers were far apart and some of them hospitable. At one ranch where the party stopped for lunch bread and milk was dished up to them. When they started to leave the sheriff was dumbfounded to hear the party ask for [illegible] dollars, which he paid. They had [illegible] the surrender of the two Indians who were indicted of Colorow and had been refused and treated in a [illegible] hostile manner and driven from the camp. They had returned but a short distance when [illegible] Having only a few of his men [illegible] the sheriff sought [illegible] and opened the fire, and three four of the Utes were wounded and one killed; at least he saw one who was shot through the hips fall to the ground from his horse. During the night the [illegible] moved and joined another band over on a small branch of Williams river. Last Sunday a party of [illegible] was discovered and sight [illegible] for a parley. A flag of truce was shown them. Not being [illegible] than five hundred yards distant on a hillside one of the men called out to them in Ute to come and have a talk. A young buck began swinging his rifle [illegible] and [illegible] it to position and fired. A few shots were exchanged, but none of the party was hit. Shortly after [illegible] a man named Martin received several shots and was killed. [illegible] Wednesday night and concluded to as they were in such bad condition there being only two blankets in the party and no food. He says the Indians are gradually closing and working into a position in the surrounding affording also an opportunity to protect where feed, game and fuel are plenty. The squaws and children are watching the herds and flocks while the bucks are fixing for a fight. The party thinks the old chief will fight to the bitter end unless allowed to leave unconditionally. To-night about twelve o'clock the party intend to start for Meeker, expecting to reach there about noon to-morrow. Nothing is known of the whereabouts of Foote and his party.

FOOTE AND KENDALL AT MEEKER.

MEEKER, Colo., August 17. [illegible] from Meeker, by Courier:

Sheriff Kendall and party arrived here this morning. None of the men discovered Kendall, as reported, but Pell Foote had succeeded with thirty-six of his men to look after small bands of Utes, as it had been discovered that the country was full of small bands, and trailers had been sent out by Colorow to get them together over on Williams' Fork. Foote arrived in town about five hours before Kendall. They are all well but completely worn out. They say there are about one hundred and twenty-five bucks gathered with the old chief and they are well armed.

THEY ARE GATHERING IN FORCE

and the sheriff has had three fights with them. He thinks there are [illegible] wounded and three or four killed. They say it is untrue that they captured four Indians and had to let them go again. This was the work of the game warden, who was out with another party of fifteen making arrests for killing game out of season. The Indians tried to ambush the party several times.

[illegible] Monday.

DENVER, August 17.—A Montrose special to the News says: The rumors here of an outbreak of Colorow and his band are various and conflicting and everybody is on the qui vive. The militia company will be ready at a few moments' notice when called upon, and Captain Gomly says the boys are eager to have a fight with Colorow, whose treachery and fiendishness are well known in this section.

A Mexican who arrived from the Lasal country yesterday says that the Southern Utes killed a cowboy named Frank Smith, who had been in the employ of the Philadelphia Cattle company, one day last week, and that Bob Caldwell, another cowboy, killed one of the Indians. He reports the Indians as being [illegible] to wreak vengance on the cowboys for the slaughtered buck. [illegible] this [illegible] in this [illegible] of late and a number of parties are on the trail of [illegible] will be [illegible] they [illegible] of the most [illegible] tribes.

The News' Warning.

DENVER, August 17.—[illegible] Meeker the News says the [illegible] Indians [illegible] and horses upon the frontiersmen [illegible] to send Colorow and his braves back to their reservation. But such [illegible] almost upon the greatest caution [illegible] long escaped notice. All the companies are in the field between Glenwood Springs and Meeker in order to avert such [illegible] proportions may not be transformed into a Custer massacre, and all because Sheriff Kendall has to claim the district court in and for the county of Garfield has lost jurisdiction over the division of [illegible] and [illegible] General West [illegible] Gov. Eaton [illegible] responsible [illegible] necessity, when it is considered that hardly a horse in his mounted outfit would stand the firing of a gun without dropping his rider and [illegible] the rest of the troop. With an Indian war on in the outlying portions of the mountains [illegible] a different sound to different ears that it is hard to draw the line between the horse and his rider, so closely are the two allied. If Sheriff Kendall is the Indian fighter he wishes to appear he would not have asked for green horses and greener men at the state's expense, but simply for arms and ammunition for his troop of cowboys, after ascertaining from competent legal authority that he and not Colorow had the best of the law books. The silence of Gen. Crook in this matter is far from favorable, while the movement of raw troops under careless or incompetent direction in the county's country is a dangerous joke to indulge in. Let a halt be called before tragedy shows comedy from the stage by one of the quick transformations Colorow and his Utes are only too apt to be producing. The Thanksgiving [illegible] should be held upon the governor and federal authorities.

[illegible]

DENVER, August 17.—Following are [illegible] received and sent for the state home to-day:

ASPEN, Col., Aug. 17.

To Alva Adams: [illegible]

Sheriff Kendall has appealed to me for help. Will the state send aid, of how? Answer.

[Signed] J. D. HOOPER, Sheriff.

GUNNISON, Col., Aug. 17.

To Governor Alva Adams:

Gunnison county will furnish 100 or more men for the Ute war if needed. We are subject to your orders.

[Signed] C. W. SHOWALTER, Sheriff.
E. W. BURTON, Mayor.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., August 17.

To Governor Alva Adams:

Would like to assist in sending Indians to a warmer climate. Can I be of use?

JOHN ADAMS,
(Brother of Governor Adams.)

Governor Adams sent the following to General West:

To Gen. West, Adj. General, Ohio:

No [illegible] whatever from Genl. Crooke. Sheriff Hooper telegraphs that he has appealed to him for help and asks me if the state will do anything of kind. I will answer Hooper that you have all the assistance that Kendall should require.

ALVA ADAMS.

Governor Adams sent the following late to night to the sheriff of Pitkin county:

To J. D. Hooper, Esq.:

Until it is represented that General West has not plenty of men and horses to aid Kendall, the state cannot pay the expenses of other parties.

[Signed] ALVA ADAMS,
Governor.

[illegible] Crook's Position.

DENVER, August 17.—An Omaha special to the News says: In regard to the telegram received from Governor Adams yesterday regarding the status of the Ute outbreak, General Crook said to-day that the scene of the outbreak is not located in his department, although the great military post, that of Fort Duchesne, in Utah, is under his command. While the general has forces at that point as also at a number of others in readiness to move at very short notice, yet he does not feel justified with the information in taking the initiative, especially as he has no knowledge as to the whereabouts of the Indians and his information as to the damage they have done is indefinite and unsatisfactory. The general accordingly forwarded a copy of the telegram by wire to General Merritt, commander of the department of the Missouri, who has charge of the troubled district. General Merritt has not been heard from.

[illegible] of Authorities Inactive.

WASHINGTON, August 17.—A telegram was received at the war department this morning from General Terry, stating that the governor of Colorado had requested General Crook to assist the civil authorities in serving a process on Ute bucks who had been indicted by the grand jury. Terry asked for instructions for the guidance of himself and Crook in the matter. A telegram was sent in reply, directing him to hold troops in readiness to move at a moment's notice. The war department has received no special information of the reported engagement between Colorow's band and the sheriff's posse, and the military authorities do not feel authorized to order troops to assist the civil authorities in their efforts to arrest the Indians. In event of the defeat of the posse and Colorow's taking to the war path, General Crook, who is near at hand, has full authority to take any needful action to protect the people. In view of the absence of any official information of an outbreak of any importance, the troops are disposed to characterize the [illegible] as somewhat premature.

ON TO THE FRONT.

More Soldiers Pass Through the City Bound for Meeker.

Second Lieutenant John W. Pattenge of Troop C, Colorado cavalry, which left Denver on Tuesday evening bound for the front, passed through the city yesterday on the late train on his way to join his command. He had with him six recruits of the troop and two car loads of horses.

In conversation with a Gazette reporter Lieutenant Pattenge stated that he had come around Kalispell, Montana, to Glenwood Springs last week and from there proceeded to Meeker where he expected to find an Indian scare coming to a head. When he arrived there he soon found that the only means of learning anything about the hostiles was to try and find Sheriff Kendall. This he did after nearly a day's ride from Meeker. While in search of the sheriff he came across a band of ranchmen Indians on their way to join Colorow. He concealed himself in the brush and they passed by him without seeing him.

He reached Sheriff Kendall and took dispatches from him to Governor Adams. These dispatches which the governor received on Tuesday led him to call out the troops. Lieutenant Pattenge stated that he and Sheriff Kendall reconnoitered the Indian encampment and found that it contained over 150 tepees. They did not see a single squaw in the camp. He gave it as his opinion that a serious conflict would likely ensue between the troops and the Indians, and that the struggle might last for two or three months.

Colorow, the lieutenant stated, is receiving reinforcements almost every day, and his band is constantly increasing. It is estimated that he has now with him a force of 250 bucks, all of whom are thoroughly armed and well supplied with ammunition.

Mr. Pattenge stated further that Sheriff Kendall had the positive assurance that the band of Utes who were stationed at the Uintah agency have left there and are now with the wily old chief. The [illegible] now [illegible] by [illegible] in a [illegible] and almost impregnable one. It will take some time to dislodge the hostiles, as they are [illegible] with the country for miles around. The spot where the Indians are now [illegible] is where Colorow made his [illegible] in a very wild and [illegible].

Regarding the movements of the troops the lieutenant stated that all the troops would be ordered to Glenwood Springs, which will be the base of supplies. This is the last station on the Eagle river extension of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. It is from twenty-five miles to Glenwood Springs, where General West has his headquarters.

After the horses have been [illegible] the troops will proceed directly to Meeker, which it is believed can be reached in two days.

Mr. Pattenge stated that United States troops were on the way to the [illegible] of the hostilities from Fort Duchesne in Utah. He regarded the situation as being very [illegible] and that very little could be done in the way of [illegible] until after the troops arrived.

[illegible]

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—The Republican state convention was called to order by Chairman Cooper of the state committee this morning. Walter H. Lyon was elected temporary chairman. He invoked the convention for the [illegible] and said this was a skirmish of the great battle of 1888 and, before it became the party to act wisely and well to see that the party platform was such as the great fight of the future could be made upon with safety.

William D. Hart was [illegible] state treasurer by acclamation.

Henry W. Williams was nominated on the first ballot for supreme judge.

The significant feature of the convention was the platform promulgated. Following is the closing part of the seventh plank: "The republicans of Pennsylvania, the native state of the honorable James G. Blaine, will view with great pleasure his nomination for the presidency in the campaign of 1888. Accident cannot abate the love of a great party nor the admiration of a great people for the statesman, true alike to his convictions and to his country." The platform endorses the state government, advocates a protective tariff and restriction of emigration, favors bounties upon exports in American bottoms, declares in favor of a independent pension bill, arraigns the national administration for political imbecility, advocates primary elections for the nomination of candidates for congress and the state offices, includes a plank extending the profound sympathy of the republicans of Pennsylvania to Gladstone and Parnell, and after the adoption of the platform the convention adjourned with three cheers for the ticket.

MANITOU MENTION.

The Population Kept Up by Fresh Arrivals.

A Few Personals and Items of News.

Regarding Prominent People at the Hotels.

The Summit of the Peak Attracts Hardy Tourists.

Mr. J. L. Walker and wife of Milford, Mass., are guests at the Barker.

There was another quite large dancing party at the Manitou house last night.

Mr. M. J. Zunts and family of New Orleans returned to the Iron Springs yesterday after a brief visit to Utah.

The Iron Springs guests do not seem to be the least affected with a desire to leave and both houses remain full of people.

Mr. Samuel Lesem, agent of the Travellers' Insurance company at Denver, registered at the Manitou house last night.

Mr. P. W. Popple, wife, a nurse and two children, and accompanied by Miss L. C. Worthen, all of New York, are at the Cliff.

The Barker house had two representatives on the Peak yesterday. They were Dr. Buck and Mr. J. Metzger of St. Louis.

L. J. Watson, proprietor of one of the largest livery stables in Denver, brought his family to the Manitou house yesterday for a visit of some days.

Dr. Solon Marks, of Milwaukee, accompanied by his wife, is stopping at the popular Barker. Dr. Marks is one of the leading physicians of the west.

We had accidentally forgotten to mention last Sunday that the firm of Huntington & Lesley furnished six of the horses that made Company A to the seat of war.

Miss Dr. Leslie A. Curtis, of Great Bend, Kansas, is a guest of the Iron Springs. Mr. Curtis is a prominent party of the best [illegible] physicians in Kansas.

C. B. Colby and W. R. Colby of Topeka arrived at the Cliff on their bicycles yesterday. They have ridden all the way on their wheels, but look as fresh as can be.

J. K. H[illegible], editor of the Topeka Capital, is sojourning in Manitou with his family. He is one of the Hodges brothers well known in newspaper and theatrical circles in the west.

Last night was the Barker house evening for a [illegible], but Mr. Barker very kindly allowed the boys to play for the free [illegible] room entertainment, and gave up the balcony [illegible].

The young people of the Cliff had a [illegible] party yesterday and made great fun for everybody by shoot the [illegible]. The bucking burro was the thing of a circus and all the boys took turns riding him.

The ladies of Manitou accepted the invitation [illegible] for the benefit of the free reading room last night. The rain interfered with it the night before, but every one enjoyed it last night just the same.

The Rev. W. G. Walters, of Topeka, and E. R. Aguilgarrion, of New York, were the only Cliff house guests who climbed the rocks of Pike's Peak yesterday. They got caught in a [illegible] storm but say they looked upon the grandest view in the world.

Both are famed. Two gentlemen were searching for Col. John Reed yesterday and stepped into a well known business house and inquired where he might be found. They were told by the men in charge that they had never heard of him. The colonel, by the way, resents very much that the Ute war comes just at this time or he would certainly have been at the front. He says that he has been in over forty such Indian raids and has never been scalped more than twice.

Following are the arrivals at the different hotels:

The Denver Republican is speculating whether the News' Utes war correspondent is in Denver or Glenwood Springs. We have had serious doubts about his having left Denver. But since reading his wild and contradictions, our speculation has not been regarding the fact he was in but whether he was standing on his head or not.

The action of the Republican state convention of Pennsylvania regarding Blaine's nomination for the presidency in 1888 shows that the republicans of the Keystone state are still true to the "Plumed Knight." Still, this action should not be taken as indicating the drift of public opinion regarding the republican nominee. For what Sherman is to an Ohio man, so is Blaine to a Pennsylvanian. They are strong in their native states which have thus early decided for them.

The distinguished Earl of Aberdeen, who has just completed this country on an extensive tour, has expressed himself as very much pleased with his visit and the hearty reception that was accorded him. Being closely identified with Gladstone in the advancement of English liberalism, his visit was not simply for pastime and pleasure. He has thoroughly studied the workings of our form of government, and studied in detail some of our institutions. When asked if he had any complaint to make, he said he had not, but he would not allow a single day.

Under Sheriff Jackson paid us a social visit to Tl[illegible] yesterday.

[illegible] of Colorado College [illegible] W. Saunders, C. [illegible]

The Midland is building a very neat station house at Florissant.

No trials for drunk[illegible] occurred in the police magistrate's court yesterday.

Miss J[illegible] Baker of Denver is spending a few w[illegible] with Miss Clara McCoy in this city.

During City Marshal Sexton's absence Officer Atkinson will perform the duties of the position.

Mr. J. E. McIntyre returned from an enjoyable two weeks' visit to Wagon Wheel Gap yesterday.

Note the changes in the advertisements of Wishon & Armentrout and Edward Ferris this morning.

Donations of $5 each have been made to the Firemen's band by Messrs. Ericson & Gough and W. H. Rice.

County Surveyor H. L. Reid is now very busy at some work for the Cascade Town and Improvement company.

There will be a meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion at the city hall Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock.

Mr. E. E. Hyde, the postal and money order clerk at the postoffice, has been compelled to resign his position owing to ill health.

There will be an important meeting of the Firemen's band at the city hall this evening. All members are urgently requested to be present.

Mr. W. E. Paton, of Friuts, corresponding secretary of the National Editorial association, was in the city yesterday and registered at The Antlers.

The Harvard astronomical party are now conducting observations on the Peak. They are also engaged in carrying on their work in stellar photography at that point.

Mr. Guy Wilson, member of the firm of Castello & Wilson, proprietors of a large general merchandise store at Florissant, was in the city yesterday. He will return to Florissant to-day.

Mr. B. F. House, the division engineer of the Denver & Santa Fe railway, will change his headquarters from his room in Mrs. A. B. Thurlow's building on Pike's Peak avenue to Palmer Lake.

The public schools will open after the summer vacation two weeks from next Monday. Superintendent Mac[illegible] Byington has returned to the city from his camp on the Cheyenne toll road where he has been spending the summer.

Mayor George W. Cook, of Leadville has been appointed general superintendent of the Colorado Midland railway. Mr. Cook's appointment seems to have given general satisfaction at Leadville, where he is quite popular.

County Surveyor Reid has sent a force of men to Catlin to complete the survey of the large irrigating canal which Mr. Reid began last spring. The canal extends from Catlin to La Junta. Mr. Reid expects to leave for the former place in a few days.

Captain De Courcy left at the Gazette office yesterday a copy of the Milwaukee, Wis., News-Herald of a recent date. The [illegible] published Mr. Fred [illegible] the New York Tribune in [illegible] fall. It will thus be seen that Colorado Springs is being quite extensively advertised.

There will be a regular meeting of the board of trade at the city hall to-morrow evening. Among other important business which it is expected will come before the board is the report of the special committee appointed to suggest some means of securing the Denver & Santa Fe shops in this city. A full attendance of members is requested.

The petroleum well in Colorado ended last week and the oil prices for crude oil were lowered in Pueblo to 15 cents a barrel and in Florence to 60 cents. We make this announcement in order that merchants generally being supplied with questions regarding the reason of the change in prices of oil in the cities.

Mr. J. M. Sellers who until recently was connected with Mr. C. E. Troth in the management of the Grand View hotel, the dining house being Troth & Sellers, has purchased the lease and taken possession of the Alamo hotel. Mr. Sellers has had ample experience in the hotel line, and will doubtless make the Alamo one of the leading hotels in the city.

The excursion of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church to Cascade canon will leave the Midland depot on Moreno avenue this morning at 9 o'clock and return at 5 o'clock, giving six hours at the canon. The fare for the round trip to those not belonging to the school is: Adults 75 cents, children 40 cents. Tickets may be had of A. Hemenway or at the depot.

A local camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will be organized in this city at the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic. President J. K. Shinn of the state encampment, of Pueblo, will be present to institute the camp. Mr. Shinnan is well known in Colorado fraternal circles, having resided here several years ago. He is at present in the clothing business at Pueblo.

Sheriff Dana has offered a reward of $75 for the detection of the thieves and the recovery of the property that was stolen from Mr. L. O. De Pourtales' ranch at Flori[illegible] on the night of August 10th. The property missing comprises two saddles, one iron gray mare, and [illegible] horses that were on the range near Florissant. Twenty-five dollars will be given for the return of the saddles, $25 for the horses and $50 for the arrest of the thieves.

Yesterday afternoon while a freight train on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad was passing over a bridge five miles south of the city a portion of the structure gave way, throwing two cars into the gully which it spanned. Workmen were engaged in building a new bridge at this place and had dug a trestle dirt away from the supports, thus weakening the bridge. No persons were injured by the accident as the train was running at a slow rate of speed. Travel was delayed for some [illegible] until passengers could be transferred. The bridge will be repaired to-day.

It was nearly four o'clock yesterday morning before Company A started on their journey to the front. After attending to the loading of their horses they ensconced themselves in a passenger car which had been set on a side track for their accommodation. While waiting for the special train that was to convey them, they passed the time in telling jokes, giving and what they would do if they should meet Colorow. One man regretted that they had forgotten to bring their fishing tackle, while another cavalryman suggested that they might use Indian for bait. The following dispatch was received from the Gazette special correspondent with the company yesterday afternoon:

SALIDA, August 17.—Reached here at 3 p. m. We were met at the depot by prominent citizens and tendered a sumptuous repast.

The concert given by Professor Heine at The Antlers music room last evening was only fairly well attended, though it deserved a more liberal patronage. We feel safe in stating that Professor Heine is a violinist of rare ability and merit. His selections last evening showed him to be a born artist. There is an inspiration accompanying his playing which is lacking in most musicians, but which gives his work a particular charm and attraction. His imitations of animals were very clever and amusing. The concert will be repeated this evening, and all lovers of good music should not fail to hear this wonderful blind musician. We are sure that all who attend will feel amply repaid with the entertainment afforded them.
